Attend the 10th Annual Cleveland Clinic Obesity Summit

The Cleveland Clinic Obesity Summit attracts a diverse mix of health care practitioners interested in discussing innovative solutions to the causes of obesity, preventive strategies, and therapeutic management approaches. The Summit features innovative sessions designed to engage you with colleagues as well as patient interviews, interactive workshops, case-based lessons, and question and answer sessions.

Who Should Attend?

Health care professionals (including physicians, nurse practitioners, nurses, physician assistants, and dietitians), researchers, hospital and corporate administrators, and others who have an interest in obesity-related fields, including bariatric surgery, endocrinology, gastroenterology, cardiology, internal medicine, pulmonary, diet and nutrition, psychiatry and psychology, urology, and primary care medicine.

Call for Abstracts – September 2, 2015

Clinical and research abstracts of original work are being accepted. Visit the event website ccfme.org/obesitysummit for instructions.
